CMHA opens first phase of Telehealth Resource Center with the resource-rich webpage

With the aim of helping to make telehealth approaches, wisely and prudently applied, a central component in Michigan’s behavioral healthcare infrastructure and a part of the clinical toolbox of the state’s behavioral health workforce, the Community Mental Health Association of Michigan (CMHA) has formed the Telehealth Resource Center for Michigan Mental Health Practitioners.

The first concrete component of the Center is the Telehealth Resource Center webpage on the CMHA website. This webpage contains a curated list of some of the best telehealth resources from across the country. We will keep Weekly Update readers informed as other components of the Center come to fruition.

CMHA issues white paper “A Tradition of Excellence and Innovation: Measuring the Performance of Michigan’s Public Mental Health System”

Over the last several decades, policy makers and elected officials have debated and implemented a range of plans for redesigning Michigan’s public mental health system. Unfortunately, some these system redesign proposals have been based on a lack of accurate information on the performance of that system. To provide an accurate picture of the performance of Michigan’s public mental health system, the Center for Healthcare Integration and Innovation (CHI2) recently issued a white paper that examines the performance of Michigan’s public mental health system against a number of state-established and national standards. This white paper can be found here.

This paper underscores the very high levels of performance that Michigan’s public mental health system, in partnership with the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (MDHHS), has demonstrated, over decades, on a number of dimensions of healthcare quality and innovation.

State & National Developments and Resources

New! Michigan issues Request for Proposals for Michigan Integrated Crisis and Access Line Staffing Service

The Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (MDHHS) and the Department of Technology, Management & Budget (DTMB) have issued a Request for Proposals (RFP) to staff the Michigan Integrated Crisis and Access Line (MCAL), a new behavioral health integrated crisis and access system. The vendor will work with MDHHS to develop and operate a command center that provides crisis line services and leverages a variety of communication methods, including but not limited to phone, text, email, chat and application, to support persons in crisis and facilitate coordinated access to care for all essential services cited in the Michigan Mental Health Code at MCL 330.1206.

These services include but are not limited to: suicide prevention, behavioral health supports and services, substance use disorder treatment and rehabilitation services. MCAL will be available for anyone in the state in need of behavioral health and/or crisis response services.

A total of $3 million in state and federal funds is available through this RFP. The RFP number is 200000001867. Proposals are due by 3 p.m. on June 30. The program period is Sept. 30, 2020 through Sept. 30, 2021. The RFP can be found here.

New! HHS Announces Enhanced Provider Portal, Relief Fund Payments for Safety Net Hospitals, Medicaid & CHIP Providers

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), through the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA), is announcing additional distributions from the Provider Relief Fund to eligible Medicaid and Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP) providers that participate in state Medicaid and CHIP programs. HHS expects to distribute approximately $15 billion to eligible providers that participate in state Medicaid and CHIP programs and have not received a payment from the Provider Relief Fund General Distribution. HHS is also announcing the distribution of $10 billion in Provider Relief Funds to safety net hospitals that serve our most vulnerable citizens. The safety net distribution will occur this week.

HHS is providing support to healthcare providers fighting the COVID-19 pandemic through the bipartisan CARES Act and the Paycheck Protection Program and Health Care Enhancement Act, which allocated $175 billion in relief funds to hospitals and other healthcare providers, including those disproportionately impacted by this pandemic.

ENHANCED PROVIDER RELIEF FUND PORTAL: HHS is launching an enhanced Provider Relief Fund Payment Portal that will allow eligible Medicaid and CHIP providers to report their annual patient revenue, which will be used as a factor in determining their Provider Relief Fund payment. The payment to each provider will be at least 2 percent of reported gross revenue from patient care; the final amount each provider receives will be determined after the data is submitted, including information about the number of Medicaid patients.

To be eligible for this funding, health care providers must not have received payments from the $50 billion Provider Relief Fund General Distribution and either have directly billed their state Medicaid/CHIP programs or Medicaid managed care plans for healthcare-related services between January 1, 2018, to May 31, 2020. Close to one million health care providers may be eligible for this funding. More information about eligibility and the application process is available here.

New! The Social Determinants of Death:

Below are excerpts from a recent editorial by Alan Weil, the Editor in Chief of Health Affairs, one of the nation’s pre-eminent publications on health policy.

I raise my voice in support of those demanding a response to the consequences of institutional racism that are being laid bare before us. I speak as an individual, but as the editor of Health Affairs I feel the need to place my response in the context of health care and health policy.

I have long been skeptical of the notion that the health care system can address social determinants of health. After decades of direct action and advocacy with the goal of achieving living wages, affordable housing, paid leave, a safe environment, and other conditions conducive to health, why, exactly, would we imagine that the health care system can achieve results when others with far more expertise in these matters have had limited success?

The reasons for my skepticism are many, but they mostly revolve around the implausibility of the powerful and resource-rich health sector serving as a catalyst for change by transferring resources and power to the social sector and engaging authentically and equitably with resource-poor communities. I find support for my skepticism in empirical work we published just a few months ago.

The full editorial can be found here.

New! Two recent CHCS blogs of interest to behavioral healthcare community

The Center for Health Care Strategies recently issued two blog posts that highlight issues of interest and concern for the nation's behavioral health community. The excerpts of and links to those blog posts are provided below.

Beyond PPE: Protecting Health Care Workers to Prevent A Behavioral Health Disaster: We need to mitigate the immediate behavioral health impact of COVID-19 on health care workers while also planning for the future. A comprehensive, three-part strategy would strengthen the resilience of the health care workforce during the pandemic and give workers the tools to navigate public health emergencies in the years to come. Read More >>

Incorrect Provider Directories Associated with Out-Of-Network Mental Health Care And Outpatient Surprise Bills: The high rate of mental health providers declining to participate in health insurance networks leads to out-of-network expenses for many patients. Using a survey of patients, Susan Busch and Kelly Kyanko find that half of patients using mental health services encountered provider directory inaccuracies. Those who encountered inaccuracies were more likely to be treated by an out-of-network provider and four times more likely to receive a surprise outpatient out-of-network bill. Read More >>

State Legislative Update

New! Budget Office, Lawmakers Starting Talks on Budget

The State Budget Office and legislative leaders are now talking out ideas on how to address a $3.2 billion hole in the current fiscal year, and one of the outstanding issues is the federal funding.

Michigan has between $2 and $3 billion in unspent and unallocated federal money to address the COVID-19 response. The Whitmer administration badly wants to find a way to use this cash to plug the budget hole, but some legislative Republicans aren't completely sold on the idea. They like the idea of using the state's current fiscal crisis to force more structural changes to state governments, but nobody has agreed to anything, yet.

Sitting in the room is Budget Director Chris Kolb, House Appropriations Committee Chair Shane Hernandez (R-Port Huron) and Senate Appropriations Committee Chair Jim Stamas (R-Midland).

Nothing is settled, but a few things are becoming clear:

- Cutting School Aid Fund payments to K-12 schools for the fiscal year ending June 30 is not preferable considering the school year is over and there's less than 20 days to go in the fiscal year. The next fiscal year, which starts July 1, likely will include cuts, but not likely the $2,000-per-pupil cut or 25% originally tossed out by Senate leaders.

- Some Republicans would like to present the Governor with a two-part budget, which would lay out how much funding the state would have had if the Governor not basically shutdown the economy through her stay-at-home orders.
- Initial conversations have gone well, but the Governor and the two Republican legislative leaders haven't been put in the same room, yet, so we may still be a ways away from anything substantive.

Senator Stamas told reporters yesterday that the FY21 budget will not be resolved until August or September because of the need for updated revenue figures, which will be analyzed during the August Consensus Revenue Estimating Conference (CREC). However, the legislature may try to pass an education budget before the fall.
